Financial report 38

General notes

"DGPP" and "plan" refer to the Desjardins Group Pension Plan.

This annual report was produced by the DGPP Division.

This document is for information purposes only. In the event of any discrepancies between this report and the Desjardins Group Pension Plan Regulation, the Regulation shall prevail.

Some sections of this report may include forecasts or expectations about future activities or results. These statements reflect the reasonable information and assumptions available at the time of writing. Because they relate to factors that may change over time, actual results may differ. They are provided for information purposes only and do not constitute a future guarantee or a commitment to deliver.

The letters M and B stand for millions and billions respectively. Therefore, "$22M" means "twenty-two million dollars" and "$100B" means "one hundred billion dollars."

Returns are gross of investment management fees.

Any differences in totals are due to rounding.

Message from the Chair of the Retirement Committee

Our goal is to give you the peace of mind you need to plan for the future. That's why we strive to provide governance that's committed to your financial security and driven to maintain plan stability.

In a rapidly changing environment, being able to count on a solid foundation for retirement is more important than ever. As Chair of the Desjardins Group Retirement Committee (DGRC), I'm proud to work with my colleagues to ensure sound management of the Desjardins Group Pension Plan.

Peace of mind now and in the future

With defined benefit plans becoming increasingly rare, the DGPP continues to offer plan members and beneficiaries stable, predictable retirement income that's protected from market uncertainty. The plan is a valuable asset for an important stage in life. It supports your well-being not just by paying out benefits, but also by making sure experts are managing the plan and its assets in a prudent and responsible way.

Ensuring sound plan management

The DGRC has a fundamental responsibility to provide financial management and administration for the plan by taking the necessary measures to protect plan members' rights and safeguard and grow the pension fund's assets. Backed by the expertise of DGPP Division teams and experienced partners, we carry out this mandate with care and prudence.

Strong, collaborative governance

I'd like to highlight the quality of our discussions, the collective expertise of our members and the strong governance in place—all of which enables the DGRC to fulfill its role in your best interest. We value transparency, attentiveness and collaboration. These principles enrich our thinking and make our decisions more relevant. This approach helps the plan offer peace of mind by maintaining its long-term balance and its ability to meet its obligations. Offering a plan that you can count on continues to provide added value for Desjardins and is a source of great pride.

On behalf of the DGRC, I'd like to express my gratitude to the DGPP Division and to all our partners and collaborators who help maintain the plan's stability. With commitment and determination, the Desjardins Group Retirement Committee will continue to fulfill its role so everyone can look forward to retirement with confidence and peace of mind.

For more than 45 years, the Desjardins Group Pension Plan has been a key driver and essential pillar for the financial security of its plan members. It also remains a strategic asset for Desjardins.

A solid plan you can trust

In 2025, the plan once again demonstrated its strong financial health. According to the latest actuarial valuation, the funding ratio is 119%, and the solvency ratio is 107%. These results show that the plan has sufficient margin to pay the promised benefits, even under the most conservative scenarios. Against a backdrop of market volatility, this position proves that we're managing the plan diligently and sustainably.

This performance also highlights why a defined benefit pension plan like ours is so unique: it offers our plan members valuable financial security and true peace of mind. We can all be proud of these successful results—they reflect the quality of our plan and the added value it brings to the entire organization.

Proactive, responsible and future-ready management

We took concrete action throughout the year. We completed major transactions and diversified our portfolios to strengthen our ability to adapt and preserve our financial strength. We also had discussions with multiple Canadian pension funds. In these meetings we were able to compare practices, identify the most effective approaches and adapt them to help us think strategically about our situation. We were able to confirm the excellent work done by the DGPP teams on managing the pension fund and identify areas for continuous improvement—many of which we're already putting into practice.

To help us improve risk management and ensure sustainable performance, we continued our responsible investment initiatives, which include integrating environmental, social and governance criteria into our investment strategies.

Keeping the plan resilient over the long term

The plan's strength is a valuable asset that reminds us why it's important to stay vigilant. Maintaining balance over time remains a priority, and this requires proactive and careful management of long-term challenges.

I'd like to thank the teams in the division, the Desjardins Group Retirement Committee and our partners at Desjardins—including the Finance Executive Division, the Member/Client Experience, Cooperation and Human Transformation Executive Division, Desjardins Global Asset Management, Desjardins Financial Security and Desjardins Trust. All of these contributors work day in, day out to make the DGPP Division a leading pension fund manager. This collective commitment reflects the pride that drives our teams and shows their determination to offer a reliable, sustainable plan that honours the trust plan members have placed in it.

A SOLID PLAN FOR EVERYONE'S WELL-BEING

The Desjardins Group Pension Plan doesn't just provide stable and predictable income to plan members during retirement. The plan also aligns with Desjardins Group's core cooperative values, placing the well-being of individuals and communities at the forefront.

Each year, the DGPP pays out more than $600 million in pension benefits to nearly 26,000 retirees, thereby contributing to the financial security of recipients and the economic vitality of communities. Most of the money is circulated back into the local economy. It supports services, boosts consumption and contributes to collective prosperity.

But the plan's impact goes far beyond the numbers. The DGPP gives plan members peace of mind today and supports their health, quality of life and dignity in retirement. It's a true driver of social equity that minimizes gaps in financial planning and help people avoid getting into precarious financial situations.

Our mission goes beyond paying out pension benefits. We help all plan members plan for and enjoy a healthier and more peaceful and fulfilling retirement.

Changes to improve your experience

In 2025, we remained committed to modernizing our services to offer you an even simpler and more personalized experience.

Fully revamped annual statement

In 2025, we introduced a fully revamped annual statement for active plan members. We designed the statements with you in mind, based on your feedback. They're simpler, clearer and more visual, making it easier for you to understand the plan. They also highlight the information you need to help you make savings and retirement decisions. The updated statements reflect your needs and our ongoing commitment to offering you a streamlined experience. The new statements for retirees will be available starting in 2026. We've revamped them to make them clearer and simpler, too.

New appointment booking service for the pension simulator

To provide you better support as you think about your finances, we've also set up a personalized appointment booking service to give you a demo of the pension simulator. You'll be able to explore different scenarios tailored to your situation so you can better understand the options available to you. This initiative can make things easier and help you make informed decisions.

International recognition

Thanks to its video series featuring first-hand testimonials from plan members, the DGPP was nominated in the Communication & Engagement category of the Excellence & Innovation Awards at the Pensions & Investments WorldPensionSummit. This international recognition highlights our commitment to innovating and making the plan more accessible, while emphasizing the key role that a defined benefit plan plays in people's overall well-being.

TRUST THAT INSPIRES US EVERY DAY

Your reality guides how we support you. Because we share the same reality, we truly understand what matters to you. This close connection improves the quality of our services and inspires every action we take to support you.

Satisfaction that speaks for itself

We measure satisfaction by sending surveys after each interaction with the DGPP Member Services team. We've maintained this outstanding satisfaction rate year after year—a clear indication of the quality support our team provides.

Of the tens of thousands of requests we handle each year, thousands of plan members take the time to share their input. Thanks to this ongoing feedback, we're able to achieve strong, credible results that reflect your experience.

Your responses are valuable because they help us continually improve our services.

In tune with your needs

In 2025, we surveyed plan members to better identify their needs and expectations for communications and services.

The results speak for themselves: the DGPP is seen as a key advantage and plan members feel well informed. The feedback we received has given us some concrete ideas about how to continue improving your experience.

Providing clear, useful and adapted communications is one of our priorities.

HOLDING STRONG DESPITE A CHALLENGING ENVIRONMENT

The year 2025 ended with positive results for the DGPP's financial health, with financial ratios remaining well above our targets.

The funding ratio, which is a key indicator of the plan's ability to meet its obligations over the long term, went from 122% to 119%. This far exceeds the target level of the stabilization provision, which has been established under Quebec legislation since 2016. As at December 31, 2025, the target for our plan is 113%. The solvency ratio, which assesses the DGPP's ability to pay benefits if the plan were to be terminated, went from 105% to 107%.

These results show that we're being diligent in our risk management practices and relevant with our investment strategies, which are reviewed and adjusted regularly to maintain the DGPP's financial strength. In 2025, this approach was once again effective in an uncertain global geopolitical and economic environment.

Thanks to this excellent performance, the employee contribution rates will remain the same in 2026. The current funding provides a solid financial basis. It ensures that all plan members can continue benefiting from a high-quality plan that guarantees income throughout their retirement at a reasonable cost.

Funding

FUNDING THAT SUPPORTS THE PLAN'S VIABILITY

Over the past few years, our funding decisions have been constantly guided by one goal: to maintain a strong financial position while ensuring stable contribution levels. That's why we take a cautious and rigorous approach when it comes to managing DGPP funding. We regularly review our forecasts and adjust our assumptions to account for factors that may affect the plan's future performance. We also include provisions and margins to deal with unforeseen events. This ensures that the plan has the necessary resources to meet its long-term obligations and ensure payment of the promised pension benefits.

We monitor the DGPP's funding closely each year. Our teams analyze the plan's situation, make projections using different scenarios and assess the potential impacts. This has allowed us to reduce DGPP contribution levels in early 2025, and to remain confident about the plan's current funding level, given that the benefits paid out by the DGPP now exceed the contributions received.

In addition to the reduced employee contributions that took into effect in early 2025, the DGPP's strong financial health has also resulted in lower employer contributions, in accordance with the Income Tax Act, which limits contributions to a plan if it's in surplus. In accordance with the banker's clause, this reduction allowed employers to begin recovering large amounts that they contributed between 2012 and 2015 to cover deficits from that period. The recovery of $140 million is one of the methods used to ensure that plan members' DGPP funding costs remain at 35% over the long term.

As a result, the funding planned for 2026 is considered appropriate and ensures benefits are sustainable and the DGPP is stable for all plan members and beneficiaries.

Maintaining strong financial health: A pillar of our current and future commitments

Contribution level

Plan members and employers pay the contributions set out in the Desjardins Group Pension Plan Regulation. The goal is to maintain a stable contribution level.

Expected performance

The DGPP's expected financial performance takes into account the most probable assumptions and includes certain provisions.

Promised benefits

The amounts paid out by the DGPP in the future are estimated based on assumptions about wage increases and according to plan members' retirement age and life expectancy.

Risk management

The plan's proactive risk management strategy aims to ensure that it's able to meet its commitments. The strategy is constantly evolving, positioning us as a leader in industry best practices.

We take sufficient risks to generate adequate long-term returns, while implementing strategies to stabilize and maintain the plan's strong financial health under a range of possible scenarios.

Our processes rely on modelling, projections and simulations that are continually updated and used as a basis for risk-taking decisions. Integrated, dynamic management of all the plan's risks is a strategic driver of performance. Risk management is a key part of building the overall portfolio and influences all investment decisions.

Main risks

Interest rate: Interest rate fluctuations have a direct and substantial effect on the plan's financial health.

Life expectancy: Plan members living longer than expected or updates to mortality tables could drive costs up.

Market: Market volatility could lead to negative returns, which would impact the contributions needed to properly fund the plan.

Liquidity: The plan must have enough money available to fulfill its financial obligations at all times.

Crisis management simulation

In October 2025, we carried out a crisis management simulation to prepare our teams to respond effectively during a financial crisis by taking consistent, coordinated action. The main goal of this immersive exercise was to strengthen the plan's resilience. It also allowed us to test process robustness and assess our decision quality during periods of uncertainty.

The simulation helped our teams prepare for the unexpected so they can ensure the continuity of the DGPP's commitments, even during difficult times. This exercise, which goes beyond our theoretical models, demonstrated that we're ready to confidently deal with even the most complex situations.

Risk mitigation measures

Comprehensive risk register

Dynamic dashboards help identify the main risks related to the plan's administration and financial management. Each risk is assessed and tracked using indicators with set targets and ranges. The tracking process helps make sure we meet objectives by identifying the causes when risk levels are exceeded and correcting the strategy if needed.

Risk systems

Industry-recognized risk management tools are used to thoroughly quantify, assess and manage the financial risks associated with all of the plan's assets and liabilities.

Investment support

Our risk management experts work with our asset managers to make sure we're taking the right amount of risk each time we invest and build portfolios.

Resilience during financial crises

We actively take part in Desjardins Group's integrated stress test exercises to ensure the plan is resilient in various financial environments.

Customized mortality table

To better estimate how long plan members will live, we customize the standard Canadian mortality tables on an annual basis using actual DGPP members' experience and socioeconomic analyses.

Climate risks

We expanded the scope of our climate-scenario analysis for real assets by incorporating additional physical hazards and new transition scenarios. Strengthening the plan's resilience to climate change remains one of our key priorities.

Strategic asset allocation

Strategic asset allocation is a long-term approach that keeps the plan’s financial health resilient in various economic scenarios at a lower cost, both now and in the future. It involves focusing on various asset classes, regions and sectors, and leveraging their unique characteristics to ensure optimal diversification. We review our strategic allocation in a dynamic, proactive way to optimize risk coverage and support stable returns.

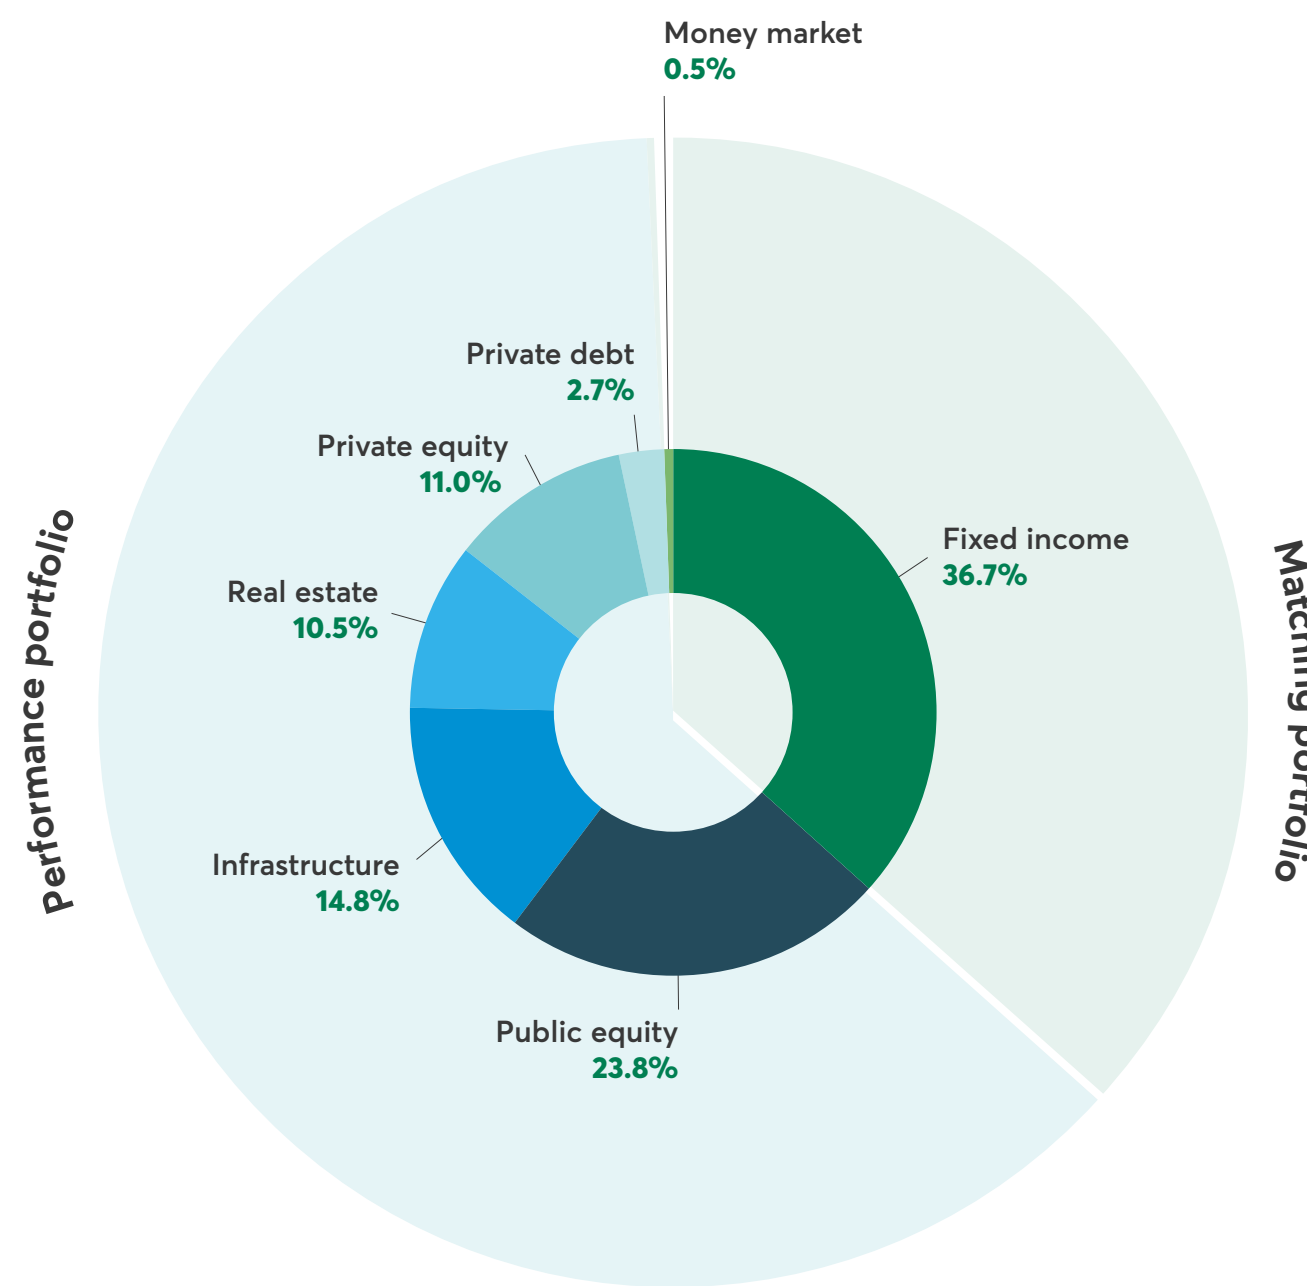

Performance portfolio

The performance portfolio aims to help the plan achieve its long-term target return. That way, we can maintain contributions at a reasonable level for plan members and employers.

| Asset class | Objective |
|----------------|--|
| Public equity | Take advantage of the stock market’s expected long-term returns and ensure access to emergency liquidity. |
| Infrastructure | Generate high, predictable regular income while offering inflation protection. |
| Real estate | Acquire real estate assets whose total return is mostly based on current income, combined with growth potential and sensitivity to inflation. |
| Private equity | Expose the portfolio to economic growth and higher potential returns, rounding out public equity through a focus on company size and liquidity premiums. |
| Private debt | Take advantage of the subprime market’s credit and liquidity risk premium, and consider all innovation opportunities that could improve the overall portfolio’s risk-adjusted performance. |

Asset allocation as at December 31, 2025

Matching portfolio

The matching portfolio aims to match assets with liabilities at the target level in order to protect the plan’s financial health, minimize volatility and comply with the organization’s risk budget.

The plan’s liabilities, which consist of the payments promised to its plan members, are significantly affected by interest rate fluctuations. To effectively close the gap between assets and liabilities, the portfolio includes securities that are sensitive to interest rate fluctuations.

|--------------|---|
| Fixed income | Achieve and maintain the target matching level between plan assets and liabilities to minimize volatility in the financial position. |
| Bond overlay | Use derivatives strategies to reach the target matching level without affecting the physical portfolio in order to allocate the maximum capital to the performance portfolio. |

Economic environment

Despite ongoing uncertainty in the global economic landscape, stock markets delivered an excellent performance in 2025. Monetary easing by major central banks, combined with strong major economies and businesses, boosted investor confidence and contributed to the markets' stellar performance.

Economy

Canada's economy continued to demonstrate significant resilience in a global landscape shaped by rising protectionism, geopolitical tension and tougher US trade policies.

The Bank of Canada cut its policy rate in 2025, bringing it down from 3% to 2.25%. This decision was supported by inflation remaining close to the long-term target of 2%. In the US, the Federal Reserve also lowered its policy rate, although it remained higher than the Canadian rate due to more persistent inflation.

Financial markets

Despite the uncertainty surrounding tariff policies, risk appetite remained solid in 2025. Looser monetary policies, sustained economic growth and positive corporate earnings have helped maintain investor confidence.

Against this favourable backdrop, stock markets posted a strong performance, with artificial intelligence continuing to be the main driver. Unlike previous years, the US market was outperformed by other major markets due to higher valuations and a more uncertain political climate in the US.

In terms of fixed income, the search for yield helped corporate bonds outperform government bonds. Long-term bonds also offered higher returns than short-term bonds, which means that some risks remain.

Lastly, the Canadian dollar appreciated against the US dollar, which has weakened due to fiscal and political concerns. However, the Canadian dollar depreciated against the euro, which benefited from economic support measures implemented in Europe.

Annual performance

Over the past year, increased investor interest in riskier assets has resulted in outstanding stock market returns and reduced credit spreads. Against this backdrop, our overall portfolio strategies helped preserve the plan's excellent financial health, leading to a positive return of 5.5%. This was largely due to the public equity portfolio's strong performance.

Overall, the DGPP generated 0.3% in added value compared to its benchmark index, which represents nearly $46M in value created in 2025. The overall portfolio's positions—including the difference between exposures to different asset classes and their respective targets, along with manager selection for fixed-income securities and private equity—accounts for much of the relative value.

Long-term performance

Lastly, it's important to highlight that the DGPP is a long-term investor. Its 6.3% return over the past 10 years meets the actuarial requirement.

Performance portfolio

The performance portfolio aims to help the plan achieve its long-term target return so we can maintain contributions at a reasonable level for plan members and employers.

The performance portfolio delivered a very solid return of 10.6% in 2025. Public equities were the main driver of the portfolio's performance, supported by favourable conditions for Canadian and emerging market equities. Private assets also generated gains, although they were below long-term targets. 2025 may have been a turning point for the real estate market, which has been challenging for more than two years. In the infrastructure portfolio, difficulties remain concentrated in a few assets, while the rest of the portfolio has achieved its long-term targets.

The annualized return over 10 years is also 10.6%. All asset classes posted long-term annualized returns that were higher than their respective target returns, helping the DGPP preserve its financial health.

The performance portfolio generated positive added value during the last fiscal year. The performance of the private equity portfolio, supported by the co-investment strategy, manager selection and overweighting in Europe, contributed significantly. In contrast, the dominance of unprofitable company securities has put the public equity portfolio at a disadvantage compared with its benchmark index.

Result

For the third year in a row, the public equity portfolio has performed remarkably well despite an uncertain geopolitical environment. The apprehension that characterized the start of the year has faded gradually, allowing for renewed confidence in corporate earnings and continued investments in artificial intelligence. Canadian and European equities outperformed US equities.

However, the rising price of gold weighed on the Canadian equity strategies, which were underweight in the gold sector. The dominance of unprofitable company securities negatively impacted the large-cap portfolio and worked against strategies that focus on solid and stable companies. In contrast, mandates targeting securities that appear undervalued have benefited from this environment and exceeded their objective.

The portfolio management strategy has continued to evolve by focusing on increased diversification and stronger risk management. The focus has now shifted to regions that have higher value-added potential, at the expense of regions that offer more limited prospects, including US large caps.

Infrastructure

Investments in physical assets like roads, bridges and energy systems to generate stable long-term revenue.

| |
|------------------------------|
| $2.8B net assets |
| 6.0% return |
| -0.3% added value |
| 8.0% 5-year return |

Result

Despite persistently high interest rates over the past year, this asset class has demonstrated resilience, supported by stable valuations and generally strong cash flows.

The portfolio benefited from high exposure to the economy's key sectors, including renewables, transportation and digital technology. However, some investments related to water treatment and distribution in the UK had a difficult year, and that reduced the portfolio's overall performance. Without these investments, the portfolio would have generated more added value than its benchmark index in 2025.

In the coming years, the portfolio is expected to continue benefiting from its forward-looking positions in assets aligned with strong structural trends, like the electrification, digitization and decarbonization of our economies.

Any differences in totals are due to rounding.

After nine consecutive difficult quarters for global real estate, 2025 saw a period of performance stabilization, which was supported by an improvement in the benchmark index's appreciation returns. This recovery is still moderate, but it reflects a gradual normalization of market conditions and a gradual resurgence of investor confidence, suggesting a possible turning point in the real estate cycle.

The real estate portfolio continued to outperform its benchmark index thanks in part to favourable sector exposure and a balanced allocation across different risk profiles. However, some investments—particularly those related to development—have been affected by a slower real estate market in recent years. Despite this, the portfolio outperforms the index over 1-, 3-, 5- and 10-year horizons, supported by structurally strong exposures and mandates whose total performance is largely driven by a high current yield, making them less sensitive to fluctuations in real estate values.

In 2026, the anticipated easing of monetary policies could support real estate valuations and stimulate a more pronounced recovery in transaction activity.

| $2.2B net assets |
| 10.1% return |
| 3.8% added value |
| 17.7% 5-year return |

Result

In 2025, the private equity portfolio exceeded its added value objective, which is set at 3%. And this is in spite of a challenging macroeconomic environment characterized by global economic and geopolitical tensions, slower growth and transaction volumes below the historical average. This performance was driven by the development of the co-investment portfolio, the selection of experienced external managers and overweighting in Europe compared to the benchmark index.

During the year, steps were taken to optimize the portfolio and support business development. Work will continue in 2026, including continued efforts to develop the co-investment portfolio and increase allocation to managers of leveraged buyouts of small- and mid-caps.

The portfolio met its performance targets in 2025, but we've been seeing performance normalization in recent years. We've recently seen several positive signs, including lower interest rates and the gradual recovery of merger and acquisition activities. These signs suggest the potential for faster distributions and improved performance.

Private debt¹

Investments in non-investment grade private debt instruments and any investment that helps improve the portfolio's risk-return profile.

| |
|------------------------------|
| $0.5B net assets |
| 6.2% return |
| 1.0% added value |
| 7.6% 5-year return |

Result

The portfolio did not achieve its added value target, which had been set at 2.5% for the last fiscal year. This result is primarily due to an unfavourable rate environment, which saw a drop in base rates, compressed credit spreads and a few isolated problems.

We continued making portfolio changes during the year, adding new external managers and pulling out all of the DGPP's investments from high-yield bonds. The new managers include two managers who specialize in infrastructure financing and one manager who seeks solid opportunities to offer private funding to businesses. We'll continue to make changes to the portfolio in 2026.

The asset class remains attractive, but the economic environment is more challenging and there is an increased number of defaults in the market. The DGPP portfolio remains well positioned to navigate these headwinds. We'll continue to carefully select managers that have strong risk evaluation skills. We'll also assess the option of adding managers that can apply the different private debt sub-strategies based on attractive market opportunities.

¹ The "Innovation and opportunities" asset class was renamed "Private debt" on January 1, 2025.

Matching portfolio

The matching portfolio plays a key role in protecting the plan’s financial health by mitigating the impact of interest rate fluctuations.

In 2025, long-term interest rates rose between the beginning and the end of the year. This increase helped support the plan’s excellent financial position, due in part to the structure of the matching portfolio.

Rising long-term rates have resulted in a negative return on the matching portfolio, which is intended to be sensitive to interest rate fluctuations. This strategy may increase the volatility of returns, but it’s still essential for protecting the plan. The strategy helps strengthen the plan’s financial health, ensure stable contributions, guarantee pension payments over the long term and maintain consistency with the organization’s desired level of risk.

The matching portfolio is generally made up of bonds and fixed-income securities. Some securities are managed directly within the fixed income portfolio. Other securities are administered using asset portfolio overlay strategies. This bond overlay provides another layer of protection without having to physically hold all the securities.

At the end of 2025, the bond overlay portfolio was valued at $6.3 billion. We carried out hedging ratio optimization transactions during the year to maintain an adequate level of protection. These adjustments helped maintain the plan’s excellent financial health.

Fixed income

Investments, like bonds, that provide regular interest payments and principal repayments at maturity.

| |
|-------------------------------|
| $6.8B net assets |
| 1.1% return |
| 0.1% added value |
| -2.7% 5-year return |

Strategic allocation

Result

In 2025, the Bank of Canada adopted a more measured approach to monetary policy, making limited adjustments to its policy rate as the economy stabilized. Long-term interest rates fluctuated throughout the year, but they generally moved within a narrow range without a clear trend. In this environment, the fixed income portfolio generated a moderately positive performance. Corporate bonds continued to outperform provincial bonds, driven by reduced credit spreads, which are linked to investor appetite for assets offering additional returns.

Short-term added value mainly comes from selecting securities and taking advantage of illiquidity and volatility premiums. We’re still diversifying long-term debt securities outside of Canada to better manage concentration risks. In 2025, we implemented a hedging strategy to cover the base rate between Canada and the US in an effort to reduce macroeconomic risks.

Commitment to our values

Maintaining our responsible investment approach

In 2025, there were multiple major challenges in the area of responsible investment. But we've remained true to our commitments. As a long-term investor, we believe that risks related to climate change and rising inequality are real and must be incorporated into our investment decisions. Desjardins Group as a whole is dedicated to accelerating the integration of environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria into its business decisions and activities.

Reviewing our practices and increasing our transparency

In line with industry best practices, the Desjardins Group Retirement Committee has reviewed its Responsible Investment Policy to reaffirm its commitment. In 2025, our RI approach was strengthened by the publication of a report on climate-related risks and opportunities, reflecting our commitment to transparency, and by setting clear expectations regarding the RI expertise of our business partners. We increased transparency and set higher expectations for our commercial partners when it comes to continuing to develop their responsible investment expertise. We continued to roll out our influence strategy, strengthening our position as a leading responsible investor. One excellent example is our contribution to creating a working group for Canadian private pension plans. This initiative helps organizations share expertise and standardize practices.

Optimizing our cross-sector approach

As part of our strategic plan, we've further integrated responsible investment into our different teams to make sure it's applied consistently in all DGPP investment activities across all asset classes.

This has resulted in three key actions:

1. A questionnaire assessing ESG practices was sent out, and standardized RI evaluation grids were integrated into the investment process. This covered approximately 77% of fixed income assets, 27% of public equities and 9% of private equities. This work will continue so that each external manager is evaluated on a 3-year cycle, or more frequently when required, across all asset classes.
2. Development of an architecture that aims to optimize ESG data valorization by integrating it into a centralized data warehouse.
3. We strengthened our research capabilities by expanding the scope of climate-scenario analysis for real assets, integrating additional physical hazards and new transition scenarios. This approach aims to better quantify the vulnerability and resilience of these assets and to support more proactive and robust decision-making in portfolio management.

Collaborating to move forward

Following an inaugural meeting held in 2024 by the DGPP, representatives from multiple Canadian private pension funds met twice more in 2025. They shared and promoted their best practices for responsible investment.

These meetings led to rich and constructive discussions. They helped optimize each plan's individual efforts on key issues like ESG data management and evaluation of external managers.

Plan representatives were also invited to contribute to a shared benchmarking tool. The tool allows them to identify practices so they can be used as inspiration when implementing their respective action plans.

Establishing a proper decarbonization trajectory

Our climate ambition

2030 target: Reduce carbon intensity by 50% by 2030 (compared to 2020). This target is in line with the decarbonization trajectory put forward by Desjardins Group as part of its commitments.

Indicator: Carbon intensity (CO₂ equivalent tonnes per million Canadian dollars invested)

Framework: PCAF (Partnership for Carbon Accounting Financials)

Scope: Public equity and corporate bond portfolio

2025 Carbon footprint

According to the data available as at December 31, 2025, the public equity and corporate bond portfolios saw their carbon intensity decrease by 29% and 26%, respectively, compared to our reference year. These results are in line with our goal to reduce the carbon intensity of our portfolios by 50% by the end of 2030.

How we intend to achieve our goal

To help us achieve significant results—given that DGPP’s public equity management is mainly entrusted to external managers—we selected a benchmark index for global equities with low carbon emissions intensity. The weighting of this index will gradually increase within the overall benchmark index used by our public markets teams. That means we’re reducing the emissions of the overall public equity portfolio while preserving our external managers’ flexibility in selecting securities and maintaining market-comparable measures for risk, diversification and expected returns.

On the corporate bond side, an important milestone was also achieved. Working closely with our main portfolio manager, Desjardins Global Asset Management, we secured meaningful emissions reductions without compromising the portfolio’s risk-return profile. That said, because our corporate bond portfolio is largely composed of long-term Canadian bonds, market-specific challenges will need to continue to be factored into our ongoing work.

A first report on climate-related risks and opportunities

Like Desjardins Group, we recognize the importance of providing a more detailed disclosure of our climate action, in line with industry best practices. In 2025, the DGPP published its first report on climate-related risks and opportunities.

This report provides an enhanced overview of governance, strategy, risk management and our 2024 results with respect to our climate commitments. This report reflects our commitment to transparency and continuous improvement, which the plan intends to support through annual disclosure.

PROMOTING RESPONSIBLE INVESTMENT BEST PRACTICES

The Principles for Responsible Investment \(PRI\) is a UN-backed global initiative that aims to promote sustainable and responsible investment practices. We signed on in 2018. PRI signatories manage 93% of the DGPP's fair market value.

GRESB is an independent organization that provides ESG performance data and peer benchmarks in the real estate and infrastructure asset sectors. We've been a member since 2022.

Real estate assets: Improved ESG analysis and assessment

In 2025, we improved our analyses by using more detailed ESG data (energy consumption, greenhouse gas emissions, water consumption, waste management) and new tools available on the GRESB platform. These measures help us consolidate the results and get a clearer picture of our investments' ESG performance.

The ESG Data Convergence Initiative \(EDCI\) is a partnership committed to streamlining the private investment industry's approach to collecting and reporting ESG data. We've been a member since 2023.

The DGPP receives a positive rating from the PRI network

The DGPP's Public Transparency Report was published in 2025. It presents the results from the PRI assessment that was carried out once the reporting questionnaire was completed. The results show a considerable improvement compared to fiscal 2023, with the equal-weighted average of the different report sections increasing from 80% to 87%.

Several categories now have high performance ratings, including private equity, real estate and infrastructure, where ratings increased from four to five stars—the highest rating. We also made significant improvements in the policy, governance and strategy, public equity and fixed income categories.

These results reflect the relevance and effectiveness of the RI measures that have been put in place over the past two years. They also help the make the plan stand out on an international level.

Fédération des caisses desjardins du québec (FCDQ)

Through its board of directors, the Federation assumes the responsibilities of plan sponsor. The Federation's Board of Directors has decision-making power in certain areas, including:

- Changes to the Desjardins Group Pension Plan Regulation
- The nature and terms of benefit payments to plan members
- Contribution rates
- The plan's funding policy

The Federation stands surety for the obligations associated with the participation of all Desjardins employers in the DGPP.

Investment Management Committee (IMC)

The DGRC entrusts the IMC with the responsibility of managing DGPP assets. Its mandate includes:

- Ensuring that the investment policy adopted by the DGRC is implemented, enforced and monitored
- Selecting investment vehicles
- Assigning management mandates to portfolio managers
- Ensuring that each investment meets expectations

The IMC has eight members, including seven voting members appointed by the DGRC, and one non-voting member designated by the Vice-President of the DGPP. Three of the committee members are women.

This committee meets every week to maintain the flexibility required for its activities and to carefully monitor investments.

Desjardins Group Retirement Committee (DGRC)

By virtue of the powers vested in it by the Supplemental Pension Plans Act and by the Desjardins Group Pension Plan Regulation, the DGRC is mainly responsible for:

- Making sure the plan is managed carefully, in line with the best interests of plan members
- Ensuring the promised benefits are paid to plan members and their beneficiaries

The DGRC is the trustee of the pension fund. That means it's required to exercise the prudence, diligence and competence that a reasonable person would exercise in similar circumstances.

In 2025, the DGRC held six meetings with a 95% attendance rate.

Training for committee members

To support sound governance, the DGRC encourages its members to expand their knowledge so that they can better understand the information provided to them, identify issues, make informed decisions and effectively monitor the administration of the plan. New members are provided with broad training to prepare them to fulfill their duties. Plus, all members have access to a professional development program with individual and group components.

Enhanced group profile

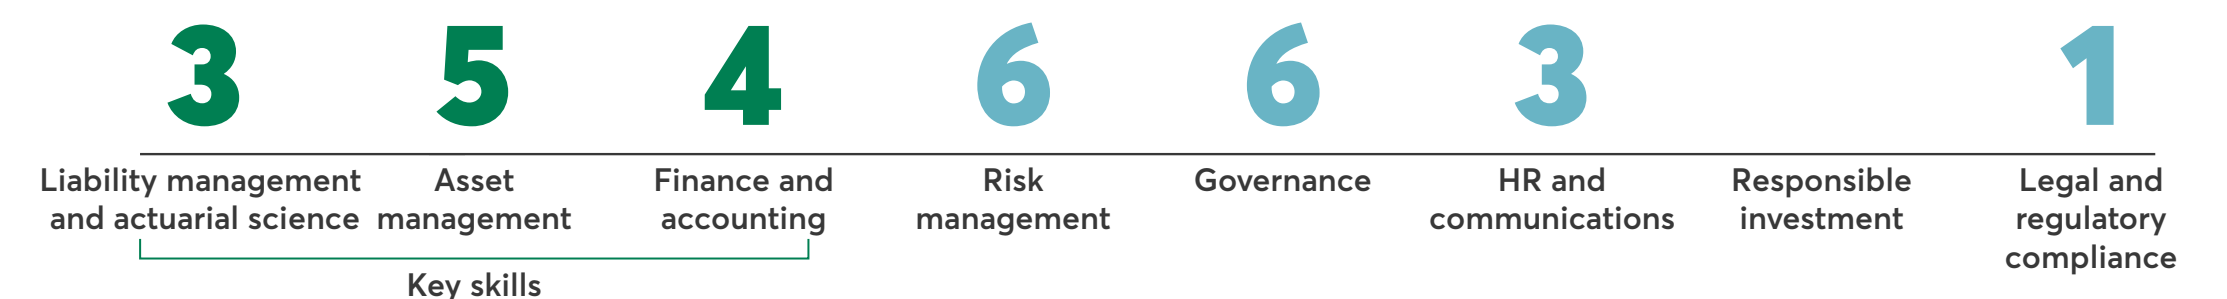

The DGRC establishes an enhanced group profile that identifies the target skills for individuals to ensure a strong committee. The profile is also a tool for the various groups called upon to designate DGRC members.

Every year, DGRC member skills are assessed. Based on the 2025 assessment, and the appointment of three new committee members, it was confirmed that the DGRC has all the key skills. The collective profile also promotes diversity in terms of gender, age, cultural background and seniority. This helps make us more effective and innovative.

Key collaborators and management team

To meet its obligations with prudence, the Desjardins Group Retirement Committee uses the services of third parties that are recognized for their expertise and entrusts them with certain functions.

DGPP DIVISION

The DGRC has appointed the FCDQ's DGPP Division to provide support with its responsibilities. Its multidisciplinary team oversees the financial management and administration of the plan so it can honour its promises to plan members.

Team members work in synergy. They collaborate to manage risk, establish an asset allocation strategy, manage investments, support governance and ensure financial management and disclosure. The DGPP Division also includes an internal team that provides the support and tools required to fully understand plan members' needs.

DGPP Division's management committee

The management committee is made up of representatives from the main teams in the DGPP Division. Having a wide range of expertise allows the committee to get an overview of the plan, monitor strategic files, share best practices and coordinate work between teams. The management committee also oversees the execution of the business plan, talent management and cross-sector projects with other Desjardins entities. Its proactive approach and open communication style reinforce practices and ensure activities are carried out in the best interest of plan members.

Our culture, a catalyst for performance

Our organizational culture is a key driver that helps us achieve our mission and supports the plan's performance. It shapes how we work together and puts people at the centre of our priorities.

At the DGPP, we believe that a healthy and stimulating workplace not only helps us attract and retain talent—it also helps us create an environment where people are able to develop, grow with confidence and actively contribute to the pension plan's stability and sustainability. Our culture is based on shared values that guide our actions each and every day.

Our cultural pillars

TRANSPARENCY

We value clear and open communication based on trust and accountability.

Transparency fosters a climate that encourages commitment.

EXCELLENCE

We aim for excellence in our practices, decisions and results. That means seeking sustainable solutions, demonstrating professionalism and pursuing continuous improvement.

TEAM SPIRIT

Collaboration, listening and respect are our watchwords. Working together strengthens team spirit, allows us to combine our expertise and helps us make better collective decisions.

TALENT DEVELOPMENT

We believe in the potential of each and every person. By supporting learning, independence and skills development, we're promoting professional growth and preparing the next generation.

INCLUSIVITY ROOTED IN ACTION

Equity, diversity and inclusion (EDI) are more than just principles—they're at the heart of our organizational culture. They guide our practices, enrich our collaborations and help us achieve our goals.

In line with Desjardins Group's EDI priorities, we're actively pursuing our efforts to create a fair and engaging workplace where everyone feels respected and valued. We remain committed to applying industry best practices to promote equity, diversity and inclusion. That way, the DGPP can have a positive and lasting impact on our teams and plan members. This commitment is reflected in formal initiatives that are aligned with our objectives.

A meaningful EDI action plan

In keeping with Desjardins Group's vision and alignments, the DGPP has implemented an EDI action plan. The plan will help:

- Formalize our EDI commitments
- Identify concrete, consistent actions that are adapted to our reality
- Further integrate EDI into our organizational practices

The plan is an important milestone for formalizing and implementing our actions.

Committed EDI working group

An internal EDI working group is helping to implement the plan. The group takes part in discussions and helps prioritize actions and rally teams around EDI issues.

Initiatives that strengthen inclusion

Here are some of the initiatives we rolled out in 2025:

- Actions to help women advance their careers in the investment industry:
 - Attended visibility events in the business community
 - Maintained our presence in universities for our intern program
 - Continued our efforts to provide internal development opportunities for female employees (The A effect, leadership program)
- Presentations to help employees create career development plans
- Raising awareness of neurodiversity and sexual and gender diversity
- Ongoing efforts to ensure inclusive and accessible communications so that all plan members have an experience that reflects and is adapted to their reality

COMMUNITY VALUES

Our commitment goes beyond our financial mission. Our role as a responsible organization is also reflected in our ability to make a positive contribution in the communities where we live and work.

That's why we launched the ACTIFS pour la communauté solidarity initiative in 2025. The initiative is in line with our inclusive culture and rallies our teams around meaningful, people-focused actions.

Through ACTIFS pour la communauté, our employees contribute their time and energy to with local organizations. In addition to creating positive impacts for communities, the program strengthens team pride and cohesion.

This initiative came to life with the creation of Brigade R, a group of staff members who take part in volunteer activities.

In 2025, events organized in Montreal and Lévis gave employees an opportunity to take meaningful action as part of:

- Food support initiatives
- Gardening and community garden activities
- Local support and solidarity projects

These opportunities for contribution have made positive, concrete impacts on communities. They allow us to uphold the pension plan's values in the field and as a team.
